

WINTER 2016

WINTER IS HERE

BATTERIES, TYRES, WHEEL ALIGNMENTS!

The winter season is the most likely time your vehicle battery will die. When temperatures drop, so too does a battery's capacity. Preventive car battery maintenance can save you from being stranded in the cold.

Colder weather means that driving conditions worsen and the risk of road accidents is increased.

Check your tyres to make sure there's plenty of tread. The minimum legal depth is 1.5mm, but the more tread you have the better the grip and the safer you'll be.

It's best to replace your tyres in sets of four (or at least in pairs on the same axle) to maintain consistent handling.

It's also important to get a wheel alignment done after you have new tyres fitted.

WE ARE HERE TO PROTECT YOU AND YOUR VEHICLE

We service and repair all makes of cars. We sell batteries and have four tyre options, from premium down to a cheaper after-market brand. And yes we can do your wheel alignment on site. Check over the page for our August / September free service offer.

Winter has definitely hit, but we can't complain – what weather we've had – the best I can remember.

Here's a tip: tyres lose pressure as the temperature drops. So pop into your local service station on the way home and put a little more air in your tyres. It's important for safety and will help on the wear and tear.

Have a safe drive and what about those 'Canes – 21 years!
